With the racing events offered by the Piping Rock Racing Association at its Locust Valley course this afternoon the sport about New York will come to a close for 1916. It is probable

Experience is supposed to play a leading part in winning sport. The Brooklyn Off to Bosexperienced entry is always supposed to have the jump. It was mainly for this reason that Marquard and Coombs were figured as Brooklyn's leading World Series hopes. They had been the lefty hurdles before, and therefore were supposed to know the proper way. Yet the vital statistics in the matter fail to carry this theory on to a logical conclusion.

Their First Starts.

Rucker's Chance Too Late.

Rucker's Chance Too Late.

Rucker's Chance Too Late.

"I want to repeat a word on Nap Rucker, the great left-hander, great in spirit now as he was in the pitching box a few years ago. Nap has stood forth as one of the leading left-handed pitchers in all time, and I regret that his chance did not come when he was at the zenith of his career. Nap retired Carrigan on strikes, and Bill turned and said to the first when he was at the zenith of his career. Nap retired Carrigan on strikes, and Bill turned and said to the first when he was at the zenith of his career. What a pitcher he must have been a couple of years ago! He has the greatest curve ball I've ever seen.' Bill only gave the proper meed of credit to a wonderful player.

"I shall probably start Jeff Pfeffer agnist the Sox to-morrow. Jeff has done mighty well in the games he worked, and I will give him his chance. Of course, I may switch to Smith. It will depend upon Carrigan's selection."

Nan Rucker, who pitched so well in hem of the 1906 'varsity william A ham, captain of the 1886'

Smith. It will depend upon Carrigan's selection."

Nap Rucker, who pitched so well in the closing innings, had little to say about the game. He was swayed by mingled feelings, and there was a touch of sadness in his tone as he talked of what might have been.

"I am nearing the end of the trail as a baseball player," said Nap, "and while I am glad that I finally realized my lifelong ambition to play in a world's series game, I regret that the team was beaten. The boys have done their best, and we may win yet. In any event, we are going to fight right down to the last trench, and if the Sox win they will realize they have been in a real fight."

"Over To-night"—Carrigan.

"Over To-night"-Carrigan.

Bill Carrigan avers that it will all be over to-night, and he speaks with an be over to-night, and he speaks with an air of conviction, too.

"It is just about all over but the shouting," said Bill. "The Sox will go right ahead and play their game, and we will win to-morrow's game. I may pitch Ruth, and then, again, I may send Ernie Shore into the game. Whoever is chosen will be right, for nothing can stop us now. Brooklyn burned the red fire for a few minutes in the first inning to-day, when the Robins made a couple of runs, but we came right back at them, and maybe old Dutch Leonard didn't pitch a fine game! The fellows hit the ball with might and main, and Larry Gardner showed his ability when he crowned one of Marquard's fast balls for a home run."

"Well, we were beaten," said Charley, draw for their overcoats."

"and there is no excuse. No matter the might-have-beens in the previous games, we were outplayed to-day, and that is all there is to the matter. We still have hopes of winning the series, but we will have to fight all the way."

POSITION WANTED

My superintendent (married) is open for position October, 1916. I am personally trying to place him in a position where good management would be appreciated. I do not hesitate to recommend this man in every way as to honesty, sobriety and character. Has been superintendent for me eleven years and given satisfaction in every way.

He is an expert on all growing crops and also the production of certified guarantee!

The Robins' Roost.

Governor John K. Tener found time to censure Chief Meyers for a few of the remarks that the Indian made about the ticket selling in Boston. He made little headway with the Chief, however. Meyers was right, and he stuck to his guns. He still insists that the players should be paid for the total sales to the first four games, regardless of the attendance.

Meyers threw with great accuracy and shot down Walker and Hooper, who tried to steal second and third

The first four Red Sox who faced Marquard in the second got on base. Hobby walked, Lewis doubled, Gard-ner made a home run, and then Wheat muffed Scott's fly after a hard run.

When Gardner clouted his home run the Royal Rooters almost tore down the stands with "Tessie." If Tessie felt badly she had nothing on united Brooklyn.

Mowrey made a smart play in the fourth inning, when he drove Lewis back to second on Scott's grounder, and got the runner at first in the bargain. His play was in vain, for Cerrigan came through with a line single to centra and secred Lewis single to centre and scored Lewis. Brooklyn fans were praying all through the first inning that the Robins would knock the "L" out of Leonard, but he was all there at the Jimmie Johnston hit the centre Gregg started to warm up down in the bullpen.

Jeff Pfeffer swung into the game as a pinch hitter. He went up for Mar-quard and struck out. "The way to beat these Red Sox." said Captain Rice, "is not to hit it where they ain't, but where they can't get." As you say, Captain Wheat made a disastrous mistake when he allowed himself to be trapped off third in the first inning. It prob-ably cost one run, and possibly two.

Duffy Lewis made a wonderful run-ning catch of a drive by Mike Mowrey in the ninth inning. If the ball had ever gotten away it would have bounced into the left-field bleachers. Duffy made his catch about two feet from the stands.
